Prompting Fundamentals

You are an expert fundraiser for a Montessori organization.
Goal: draft a warm donor email that invites a 20-minute call.
Context: Montessori program for orphaned children
Constraints: no pressure, no exclamation marks, 160–190 words.
Output: 2 subject lines + email + 1 short follow-up text.
Quality: list assumptions + 3 questions for me.

Creative writing, emails - grammar check

I am a Montessori parent. I help my children develop their potential to the full. I prepare our environment at home so that it helps them in achieving this. I behave in such a way that they can learn from me. I know I am their most important teacher. I support them from the moment they are born to achieve independence and confidence. I include them in my every day life and the life of our family. I observe them and listen to them. I se t up clear and fair boundaries. I respect their needs and developmental stages. I communicate kindly an din a positive way. I love them the way they are, without conditions and expectations.

Prompt Patterns for Everyday Use

Ask me 5 clarifying questions first.
Give 3 versions: short / medium / punchy.
Rewrite for [audience] without Montessori jargon.
Make a checklist + timeline + owners.

Quality Patterns for Everyday Use

List assumptions + what to verify.
Find weak claims and improve them.
Create a risk register with mitigations.
Turn this into a table / template.

Research

Do deep research: In [country], is an AMI diploma legally recognized as a teaching qualification?
Use official sources (ministries, credential agencies, AMI statements).
Output: 10 bullets + links + “what is unclear / needs verification.”
Add a disclaimer: this is not legal advice.

Grant Writing and Fundraising

You are an expert grant writer and fundraiser. You are extremely skilled at finding suitable grant calls for Montessori organisations. You use best-practice grant strategy and improve our hit rate.
